Mixed League Mooted

Curling To Start Nov. 15, Seek To Stimulate Interest

A meeting of the Vulcan Men's Curling Club was held on Monday, Oct. 25, for the purpose of electing a new president to replace the late Howard Spaeth and to make preparations for the coming curling season.

Dan Watson who was elected as vice-president at last spring's meeting, accepted the post of president for 1965-66 season and his post was filled by the election of Vernal Haga as vice-president.

Main topic of conversation during the meeting was how to rejuvenate and stimulate more interest in curling. A survey will be taken immediately to find out how many people are interested in curling in a mixed (women and men) league and curl one night a week and also the same for a commercial league (where rinks may be entered from any business or lodge or club etc., and also curl one night a week).

Any man or woman interested in curling this winter in a league or square draw is asked to please contact any member of the executive to be certain of being placed on a rink.

Curling is scheduled to start around November 15th.

Adding to local interest is the fact that the Foothills Bonspiel is to be held in Vulcan this season, starting January 3.

Members of the men's curling club executive are:

Dan Watson, president; Vernal Haga, vice-president; Gale Atkinson, Burrell Drummond, Cy Rebalin, Mel Jordan and Richard Hammer, directors.

Services At United Church For A. N. Severson

Alfred Neal Severson, aged 74, died at Vulcan on Sunday, Oct. 24, 1965.

Born at Petersburg, North Dakota, he came to Claresholm in 1923, Carmangay in 1952 and Vulcan in 1954. He served overseas in the U.S. Army during the First World War and was a member of the Royal Canadian Legion in Vulcan.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Clara Lukins, South Beach, Oregon, and Mrs. Olga Miller, Didsbury; three brothers, Otto of East Grand Forks, Minn., Einar of Petersburg, Minn. and Arthur of Alexandria, Virginia.

Services were held at the Vulcan United Church on Wednesday, Oct. 27, with Rev. Wellington Dorrmer officiating. Honorary pall bearers were Tom Jensen, Walter McDermott, L. Hammer, Colin McInnes, Dave Crabb, Sr., Steve Gardania and Ed Watwood. Active pall bearers were Otto Hagg, Ivar Ivarson, Dave Crabb, Bruce Crabb, Dave Cadger and Glen Deglow.

HEADS WEEKLIES—George Meyer, associate editor of The Camrose Canadian, was elected president of the Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association at the group's annual convention held in Lethbridge October 21-22-23. He succeeds Ron Newsom of The Bashaw Star.

Must Have Insurance Or Green Slip

The Honourable Gordon E. Taylor, Minister of Highways, has issued a reminder to applicants for motor vehicle registration that the question "Do You Have the Necessary Insurance Coverage?" must be answered "Yes" or "No". Failure to answer this question will result in rejection of application.

Any person who makes an application for a motor vehicle registration declaring that he has insurance when in fact there is no insurance in liable to a penalty of $500.00, the minister said. Those who purchase a "green" certificate by making a contribution to the Claims Fund are reminded that there is absolutely no liability protection provided. The "green" certificate does not provide insurance coverage.

Police checks are again being intensified, and when stopped by patrols, drivers will be asked to produce:

- operator's license,
- vehicle registration certificate, and
- "Pink" card, or in the alternative a "green" certificate.

MARRIED 60 YEARS—Mr. and Mrs. Anthony E. Bach of 2117 16th St. S.W., Calgary, marked their diamond wedding anniversary on Sunday, Oct. 24, 1965, with open house for their relatives and friends at the Ramsay community hall in Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Bach

Anglican Church Ladies Guild Instructed On Church History

The regular meeting of the Anglican Ladies Guild was held in the church hall with the Rev. Cowell and 10 members present.

The business meeting included final plans for the rummage sale October 23. Further discussions were made for the Christmas tea and bazaar on Nov. 27. It was decided the next meeting will be held one week early on Nov. 17 at the home of Mrs. Taber and final plans will then be made for this annual tea.

The Rev. Cowell continued his interesting instruction on church history. The Magnificat was taken from the Service of Evensong and explained as the song of praise and thanksgiving to God that the Virgin Mary gave when she heard that she had been chosen to be the Mother of Jesus.

The next few hours were spent sorting and setting out rummage. The evening ended with a hearty and delicious lunch served by Mrs. Ron Buehler and Mrs. Art Fitzpatrick.

Pheasant Derby Attracts 100 Hunters

About 100 hunters were in attendance at the third annual Pheasant Derby, sponsored by the Vulcan Kinsmen Club in the Armouries on October 16.

A buffet style lunch was served followed by an interesting program of a magician's act, a film and the presentation of prizes.

C. Bush of Calgary was the winner of $100 cash as his choice of a 30-30 rifle, shotgun or the money. Winning ticket number was 22.

Hunters winning prizes by shooting the pheasants with the longest tail feathers were: Blaine Middleton (binoculars), Howard Burrell (gun case), Don Houlton and John Lepak tied for third (hunting knife). There were 15 entries in the derby, with 19½ being the length of the longest tail feather.

Prizes of compasses were awarded to W. McFarland of Vancouver, the hunter from farthest away; Lester Giles, oldest hunter present; and Robert Dow, youngest hunter.

Slow Learners Deserve Same School Opportunity

"We must realize that the slow learner and the retarded child deserves the same educational opportunity as any citizen," Miss Nettie Ware told the Lionettes, "the public must be informed of the potential offered by the Opportunity Classes, now being adopted through the Department of Education."

Thirty-one Lionettes and guests met Monday evening at the Vulcan Hotel banquet room to finalize plans for Senior Citizens' Night to be held Wednesday. During the serving of the dinner, Edythe Gottenberg gave a most entertaining commentary on the hair stylist show attended earlier in the day by several Lionette members.

Guest speaker, Miss Ware spoke to the appreciative audience of the necessary co-operation of so many to make the opportunity classes in Vulcan a reality. Designed for the slow learner, specialized teaching is required as well as a separate classroom. It is hoped that by educating the public to the tremendous advantages, an Opportunity Class may be started in the County of Vulcan by next term.

Induction of five new members, Helen Roe, Betty Orchard, Mae Webb, Laura O'Reilly and Grace Taylor was conducted by Bea Richardson and all were welcomed individually by the members.

The next meeting, to be held on Nov. 29, will be in the form of a Christmas party and members were reminded that due to lack of space, guests could not be included this year. It was moved that the gifts to be exchanged must be home-made. Hostesses for "talent night" are Ruth Richardson, Ruth Dann and Ruth Christensen.

ALMOST PERFECT

Milk is not only an almost perfect food and a most refreshing drink but is, in its various forms, an economical food. For those who are reducing, skim milk is recommended since it supplies calcium, riboflavin, and protein, as well as vitamins and minerals. Powdered milk can be restored to fluid form by sprinkling into water and beating thoroughly. Both skim and whole milk are available in powdered forms.

At Vulcan Airport . . .

National Air Rally Oct. 24 Won By Stettler Entrant

The Vulcan Airport, seven miles south-west of town, was the starting and finishing point for the Governor-General's Cup National Air Rally on Sunday, Oct. 24. This was the first time the Rally had been held in Western Canada.

Originally planned to be held here in June, the Rally had been postponed because of weather conditions this spring. It is sponsored by the Canadian Owners and Pilots Association.

Dr. W. Harrison of Stettler, in a Cessna aircraft, was winner of the Rally this year. The Rally, which is a test of flying skill and not speed, involved flying a triangular course of about 196 miles total distance, with exactitude of course and ground speed being the major factors considered. The triangular course was from Vulcan to Brooks to Barnwell and back to Vulcan.

There were over 30 entrants in the race, which saw E. Siegmund of Winnipeg place second, Ken McTavish of Calgary third, Varno Westlund of Blackie fourth and Bob Parkinson of Calgary fifth. Entries included airplanes and pilots from Don Mills and Ottawa in Ontario, New Norway and Winnipeg in Manitoba, Saskatoon, Sask. and Victoria and Shuswap Lake, B.C., and many Alberta pilots.

There were many different types of aircraft included in the 46 planes that landed at the airport on Sunday. Not all were there to compete in the Rally and the more than 100 persons present during the day included officials and spectators but all thoroughly enjoyed the event, which was blessed with perfect fall weather.

The Weather

Perfect Indian Summer weather has prevailed this past week, with temperatures reaching a high of 80 above last Saturday. Harvesting is completed.

Estimated expenditure for the federal government's newest department, the Department of Industry is $31 million for the current year.

. . . In Perfect Weather

The airplanes included two home-built aircraft with their proud owners, two Tiger Moths (familiar as an elementary training plane to pilots early in World War Two), a 450-mile-per-hour Mustang fighter plane, now privately owned and flown, and several twin-engine jobs.

As hosts, member of the Vulcan Flying Club were kept busy during the day seeing to the comfort of their guests from all over Canada. A breakfast of bacon and eggs and all the trimmings was served to over 100 people and coffee and hot dogs were on tap all during the day. Walter Dana is president and David Mitchell secretary of the Vulcan Flying Club and members and their wives were helped by other willing workers.

KENNETH STANLEY SCALES

Son of Mrs. Stanley Scales and the late Mr. Scales of Vulcan, Kenneth Stanley Scales has been awarded the Governor-General's Medal for attaining the highest standing in Grade Nine departmental examinations in the Counties of Vulcan and Wheatland. He is an honors graduate in 1965 at County Central High School, Vulcan.

Official presentation of the medal will be made at a later date.

Hallowe'en Will Be On Saturday

Falling in line with Hallowe'en plans in most other parts of the country, the big annual evening for the children will be celebrated here on Saturday, Oct. 30, rather than on Sunday, Oct. 31.

Residents of the Village of Champion are also advised that Hallowe'en has been advanced the one day in their community and will be celebrated on October 30.

So be prepared Saturday evening for the "trick or treat" spoofs and goblins for this will be the official night to celebrate Hallowe'en.

NO GOOSE—It cost Melvin Semenluk of Calgary $100 to find out the bird above is a whistling swan, a protected species, not a goose. He shot the bird last week in the Champion area and was apprehended by Game Officer Bert Freeman of High River, shown holding the swan. In High River court Magistrate Stilwell disregarded the explanation that the bird had been shot in an honest mistake for a white goose, and said the number of swans being shot is "utterly ridiculous".

He warned that he will impose the $100 fine in all future cases of this kind.

Richard Kromm, also of Calgary was fined $50 and costs or 21 days in jail for having a loaded shotgun in the back of his car. Kromm told the court he had believed it was permissible to have the loaded gun in the car as long as the safety catch was on.

Receiving a $10 fine for fishing with more than one line in Lake McGregor was Ewald Boshm of Calgary.

Training Program To Start

Plans by President John Andrews to implement the hunter-training program with courses of instruction during the winter were approved at the October 20th meeting of the Vulcan and District Fish and Game Association held at the Vulcan Cafe.

About 67 members, the largest attendance in recent years, favored the start of the courses as soon as classes can be arranged. Instructors will come from the ranks of local sportsmen who took the hunter-training instructor's course this spring. There is no cost to those enrolling in the course which is of two weeks duration with two and a half hour sessions four nights per week. One stipulation is that those interested must be 14 years old or over.

As was expected, the report of the upland game chairman revealed a far reduced pheasant population this year with the area south-west of Vulcan most productive. Carmangay area was described as very poor this year because of the heavy kill last winter. By comparison lots of Hungarian partridge are being seen in most areas.

However the county is not alone in its pheasant problem. Hunters working the more densely bird populated Lethbridge area report tough hunting there with one hunter returning to his motel after opening day without firing a shot. Montie Findlay of the fish committee reiterated need for the local group's repeated resolution for prohibition of fishing during spawning season. Fish catches this summer have been generally poor and now inroads are being made on some of the "further back" streams which have had less pressure in past. The upper reaches of the north fork of the Old Man River apparently are due to be further opened in future with a better road and possibly a shelter built back in what used to be something approaching a wilderness area. Such areas as this in particular, harbor some of the few remaining good fish streams for cutthroat and other species.

CHEESE

October is cheese festival time. Attractive cheese trays add color to a buffet table as well as many nutrients.

When using cheese, choose from the many varieties available (Over 40 types of Canadian Cheese). Count on three to four ounces per person as a total. Buy large quantities of the favorites and smaller quantities of the lesser known types because some people may just sample these.

The flavor and texture of Cheddar Cheese varies according to the length of time it is allowed to ripen. Longer aging produces a sharper flavor and rates a premium price. Cheddar is labelled "mild", "medium", or "old", depending on whether it has been aged two months, eight months or one year.

Why is there a difference in the color of cheddar cheese? The natural color is a creamy white but many people prefer the deeper orange color so food coloring is added. This does not alter the food value or flavor — the deeper color does add more color to toppings and sauces.

What is the difference between Processed Cheese and Cheddar Cheese? Processed cheese is made by blending mild and aged cheddar cheese, milk solids, food coloring and usually an emulsifier. It is then heated to pasteurization temperature, poured into molds and cooled. The high temperature halts the aging process so that the flavor doesn't change with storage.

Skim Milk Processed cheese is available for the weight watchers. The fat content is low but it contains as much calcium, protein and riboflavin as whole milk cheese.

The best way to store cheese is in the refrigerator, not the freezer. Keep it from drying out by wrapping in foil or transparent wrap. If necessary, some types of cheese may be frozen — Cheddar, Swiss, Provolone, Mozzarella, Camembert, Parmesan and Romano are most satisfactory. Keep the pieces small — not more than one pound so they'll freeze quickly. Wrap carefully in heavy duty foil, pressing the foil against the cut surface to expel any air, then seal and freeze. Always thaw in the refrigerator, not at room temperature.

Nova Scotia had the first parliamentary government in Canada when a 22-member elected Assembly met at Halifax in 1758.

DATED at Vulcan, Alberta, this 20th day of October, A.D. 1965.

C. H. ANDREWS,
Returning Officer.

the cat and the fox

A fox was boasting to a cat one day about how smart he was. "The hunters' dogs will never catch me," he bragged, "I have at least a hundred clever plans for escaping them!" "I have only one plan," said the cat, humbly, "I wish you would teach me some of your clever tricks." Just then they heard the yelping of dogs. In a flash the cat was up a tree. "This is the trick I told you about," she called down to the fox, "my only one. Which of your plans are you going to use?" But before the fox had time to think which plan he should use, the dogs were upon him.

The moral of the story is: One good plan that works is worth a hundred doubtful ones.

M.S.I. is a perfect example of a simple, commonsense plan that works well. Known and trusted for nearly eighteen years, M.S.I. has become a household word in Alberta for prepaid medical care. It is a voluntary and democratic institution created by Alberta doctors in a spirit of cooperation to meet the special needs of Albertans.

Year by year, M.S.I. has widened the scope of its coverage. Today this coverage includes all doctors' calls, whether at the patient's home, in the doctor's office or at the hospital, wherever the patient may be; surgeons' and anaesthetists' fees; diagnostic procedures and maternity services.

At the same time, M.S.I. has steadily reduced the cost of its administration. Now, less than eight cents of each subscriber's dollar goes for administration costs. More than 700,000 Albertans, or nearly half the population of the province, now enjoy the protection of M.S.I.

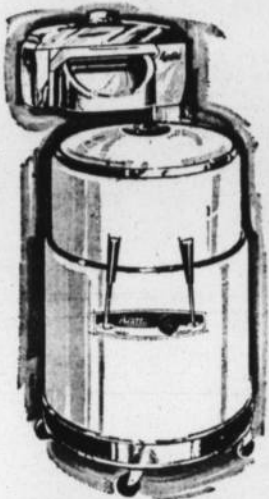

M.S.I. is the best and cheapest medical care coverage.

HUNTERS NOTE

Without efficient vision, a hunter may get himself into trouble. A man with 20-20 vision probably won't kill his best friend or a farmer's prize cattle, but if he needs glasses for distant viewing, he should get them, before he goes out to hunt but commits murder. If the hunter has uncorrected vision he will not see his target plainly. He should shoot only at a clearly seen animal, not at a movement.

The bodice embroidered with chantilly lace, featured a portrait neckline and lily-point sleeves. Her scalloped veil was caught by a crystal tiara and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias, red roses and lily-of-the-valley. In her shoe the bride wore the traditional sixpence sent to her from England by her brother, Richard Minty, who is serving a mission in that country for the LDS Church.

Providing & maintaining Alberta's public buildings

Operating a growing province like Alberta is a big business, a business that entails administration, education, hospitalization and recreation. Providing and maintaining the hundreds of public buildings with the required specialized facilities for these activities is the task of the Department of Public Works.

In the past decade this Department has carried out or supervised the construction of a building program of more than $210 million. By far the greater proportion of this program has been of direct benefit to Alberta's citizens. In the field of education, twenty large new buildings have been erected for the University of Alberta campuses at Edmonton and Calgary. The Northern Alberta Institute of Technology and the current expansion at the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology are two further examples of public buildings for the improvement of Alberta's education facilities. Extensive building has been carried out at the Alberta Hospitals in Red Deer, Claresholm and Ponoka. $16.5 million has been spent on the construction of senior citizens' homes throughout the province. Alberta's two Jubilee Auditoriums are excellent examples of the growing appreciation Albertans have for cultural activities.

Design and construction of public buildings are carried out by private concerns except in those cases where it is in the public interest for the Department's own architects and engineers to carry out the construction.

UAC Expansion

The Edmonton-oriented board of governors of the University of Alberta apparently moves no faster than it has to when faced with expansion of facilities at the University of Alberta, Calgary. To the average observer, there appears to be a definite reluctance on the part of the Edmonton authorities to speed up the growth of UAC.

The need for institution of health science faculties at the Calgary campus was emphasized recently when the University of Alberta at Edmonton had to turn away 74 potential doctors and 114 potential dentists because both faculties are taxed to the limit. Far more students than these were actually turned down in the two faculties, but the figures given are of qualified students. In addition, the faculty of pharmacy turned away 21 qualified applicants.

The need for doctors and dentists in Canada is already great and is certainly going to increase in future years. Calgary has already been suggested as the site for a second medical school in the province and will now probably be approved for this faculty. But it is unfortunate that so many qualified students have to be turned down before the serious shortage of medical training facilities in the province is brought into the open and plans for a second medical school considered.

Expansion at UAC is going to be a slower-than-necessary process if the university officials at Edmonton are able to call the shots. But full autonomy for the Calgary university is not too far away and should make a difference.

Helping The Jobless

(C. J. Harris)

A quite encouraging report on the increasing enrolment in special courses for the unemployed has just been released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Under Program Five of the federal-provincial Technical and Vocational Training Agreement, training is available to unemployed persons who wish to improve their basic education or occupational competence.

In the program's first year, 1961-1962, enrolments across Canada totalled 27,000. In its second year the total rose to 38,000. In its third year, 1963-1964, the total rose again to 49,000. Of last year's total, the largest number of unemployed, some 16,000 were enrolled in basic courses in such subjects as English, mathematics and science, designed to bring them to a level of development which would enable them to proceed with further training for specialized occupations.

Of the unemployed who last year were taking courses designed to fit them for immediate employment, nearly 10,000 were studying business practice, 2,700 were studying welding, 1,500 were training to be nursing aides, 1,100 were studying merchandising and salesmanship, 1,100 were learning to operate power sewing machines, 1,000 were studying machine shop practice, and 1,000 were studying draughting.

While no enrolment figures are available for the current academic year, it may be assumed that there has been another substantial increase in the number of unemployed taking advantage of Program Five. The federal government's budgetary estimate to cover its share of the cost of Program Five for this year is $12.6 million, considerably increased over last year's spending of $9.8 million. In the previous year Ottawa's share came to $5.6 million and in the first year of the program, 1961-62, it was $4 million.

Also encouraging is the DBS report of an enrolment last year of 34,000 in full-time trade and other occupational courses in provincial trade schools, private trade schools and business colleges under Program Three of the federal-provincial agreement. Eligible under this program are persons who have left school and are seeking a first job, or employed persons wishing to up-grade their skill, or individuals wishing to retrain for a change of occupation.

These programs are aimed at aiding those who are, or who fear they will be, unemployable. They can help only those who will help themselves. Fortunately, there are many such.

BRINGING NATURE INDOORS
Dried arrangements can be a year round pleasure for you and for others who may enjoy your arrangements.

Now is the time for you to gather your material. Many interesting materials are available close at hand. Cattails, weeds, grains, grasses, poppy heads and many others lend well to drying.

Weeds and grasses can be picked after they've dried along the roadside or in the field. If they are not dry, and you wish to preserve their straight lines, hang them in small bunches with their heads down. To make the stems curve, place them loosely in a container allowing the stems to bend gently over the edge of the container. Dry in a warm area. Materials require a dry heat to be preserved rapidly and successfully.

To preserve the cattails, dip in shellac or paraffin. Perhaps you've had the experience of shattering cattails!

Dried materials lend themselves to interesting one color arrangements. Colors are softer and more subtle than fresh flowers. Your arrangement may be enhanced by a touch of color of form of a few dried pieces purchased from your florist.

An idea you might wish to follow is to gather materials now for your winter bouquet to be used during the festive season. To add spark, cattails could be dipped in silver, gold or bronze paint. This would serve to preserve them.

The simplest method of painting large, and, particularly delicate materials is to spray or dip them. To dip cattails, fill a large can or bucket into the container. When drawn out, the paint attaches itself to the material.

Once your material is thoroughly dried, its ready to use or, perhaps to store away for future use. Like other accessories in decorating, your winter bouquet isn't meant to be a permanent piece in the room. Perhaps you might have it out for several weeks. Then, it might be dismantled and stored away. Bring it out again at Christmas, add a few festive ornaments, arrangement in a new line, and your gifts of nature take on a new look.

Motion Sickness

Motion sickness may spoil the pleasure of travelling, including trips by air, water, road or train. There are quite a few commercial products available that your doctor or druggist can recommend to offset motion sickness. Eating lightly before your departure and avoiding excessive alcohol are also helpful.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Editor, The Advocate:

Here is a letter from one against the recreation centre if you can still call it that, and here are a few points against it.

1. A recreation centre is a building used for all kinds of entertainment for everybody, young and old alike and is built by the community without friction like we country people paid so much and you town people only so much. Do not forget that there are a great number of people, more in the country than in the town so from there more money. But what's the difference? If a guy can give $10 he does and if he can only afford $1 there should not be sour faces.

2. Already a town resident pays more taxes on an average house than a farmer on a half section of land.

3. It is going to be built at the wrong site because there will not be enough parking space.

4. What are we going to do with our old rink and Oddfellows hall?

5. Are we just going to send our kids in there and let them find something to do or are we going to hire a recreation officer for about $600 a month and where is that money coming from? Please give the people a straight answer here which should have been done before and you would have had a lot more votes. But do not try to squeeze money out of us by means of water meters, if so why not a dime a bushel for grain delivered to the elevators to keep even.

To me whether its a farmer, a city slicker or a minister of a church, one time or another we need one another because there is no difference.

Fish & Game Program To Start

Elk are reported to be still in the high country and in Elk Valley, over the B.C. border, fewer numbers are seen this year. Disease in sheep is also being found in this area.

Members were told of a meeting to be held at Vauxhall, Oct. 27 to decide what action can be taken on the prospects of small local lakes being thrown open to commercial winter fishing. It was felt this would destroy chances of the smaller fishermen living close to these lakes, such as Lake McGregor, as they would not likely be able to afford the $100 license.

For the second year, complaints were registered concerning the low mileage allowed game officer Bert Freeman who covers part of the county. It was felt there would be no possibility of getting additional staff and as the matter now stands the officer cannot cover the mountain hunting and prairie regions adequately without being allowed more car mileage. The speaker felt this problem would not likely be solved until government officials "interested in mountains, streams, recreation and conservation rather than dollars" are voted in.

The raffle for three five dollar bills was won by Jennie Wyatt.

Preceding lunch members enjoyed a colored film describing a trip down the Colorado River in jet-powered boats.

REPORT FROM EDMONTON

(By J. Wally Strang)

Premier Manning's opposition to federal medicare could be the beginning of more grief than the Secord Party can handle right now. Whether or not the labor group from Calgary is successful in the declaration of war on the Premier, because of his opposition to national medicare, look for a continued silent battle. My informants tell me the key man behind the undercurrent is none other than Neil Reimer, better known around here as Mr. NDP.

HOME OWNER GRANTS

The suggestion that we in the province of Alberta may be in line for home owner grants similar to B.C. is going to be a hot potato. The betting in the press room right now, is that there will not be any such grant either this year or next.

Even in government circles . . . and believe me the government works in circles . . . the odds are that if we get a grant . . . look out for a new provincial tax . . . as suggested by the long departed ex-provincial treasurer, Ted Hinman. As some will recall, it was Mr. Hinman's suggestion of a sales tax that brought screaming denials from all levels of government. But the government can always change its mind . . . right Mr. Manning?

ELECTION FEVER

The quick tour by Mr. Pearson through Edmonton . . . is still being criticized by many who wanted to see and hear the P.M. For the man on the street or the man who has a business to attend to . . . getting away in the afternoon to attend a political rally is almost impossible . . . but then it may be that the Liberals are only looking for support from women and children.

The odds at this time indicate young Preston Manning . . . son of the Premier . . . could take the Edmonton East riding. Right now . . . none of the ridings are generating much excitement . . . although Marcel Lambert has come down off his perch and is now out shaking hands with the man on the go. Too bad the Conservative doesn't do it throughout the year. When he's not electioneering, Mr. Lambert . . . in this writer's books . . . is the one person you would say is most likely not to succeed . . . but then this is election time and people are gullible.

"Well, I guess so," said the patient, rising from the couch. "It is ridiculous, but I'll have to be running along now — she's knitting a sweater and she asked me to stop off and bring home 800 balls of yarn."

NITRATE POISONING

Farmers are wise to be cautious about feeding or pasturing some of their grain crops that failed to mature before the recent inclement weather set in. There is a good chance that forage from crops that were severely frozen while they were still quite green will be high in nitrates predicts L. M. Bezeau, Animal Nutritionist at the Lethbridge Research Station. This could lead to trouble from nitrate poisoning.

He adds that the only sure way to determine the nitrate content is to have the feed analyzed. This can be done at the Soil and Feed Testing Laboratory in Edmonton, but it does take a few weeks. In the meantime he suggests that the risk of nitrate poisoning can be reduced by diluting frozen forage with grain or hay.

Immature plants seem to be characteristically high in nitrates says Mr. Bezeau. But deaths have also been reported from well water high in nitrates, fertilizer bags, and fertilizer picked up by animals after fertilizing a pasture. 0.5% nitrate in feed is potentially dangerous; 0.75% will reduce milk production and 1.5% is considered as the lethal level.

The reaction to nitrates may vary from animal to animal and may vary in the same animal from day to day. Animals can build up a tolerance to nitrates when it is fed in small amounts over a period of time. They are excreted quite rapidly so if the source of nitrate is removed, sick animals will usually recover says Mr. Bezeau. Nitrates also inhibit the conversion of carotene to vitamin A but this can be overcome by feeding stabilized vitamin A. He says nitrate poisoning is likely to occur following the sudden introduction of a high nitrate feed that is readily consumed by the animal.

There are many non-protein nitrogen compounds that are converted by rumen organisms to ammonia to produce their own body protein. As they pass along the digestive tract these organisms are later used as protein by the cow. According to Mr. Bezeau, nitrates are similar to these compounds in that the end product is ammonia. But in changing from nitrate to ammonia two intermediate products are formed which are highly lethal poisons. These are nitrite and hydroxylamine. Green oat hay frequently contains toxic quantities of nitrate and is probably the most common trouble maker says Mr. Bezeau.

Double-ring Ceremony For Linda Army

A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Church of the Brethren, at Arrowwood, Alberta, the afternoon of August 14, 1965, when Linda Fay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Army of Arrowwood was united in marriage to William Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Barnes of Clive, Alberta.

Rev. Glenn Harmon of Arrowwood officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Grace Williams was pianist.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of gladioli and candelabra. The pews for honored guests were marked with white bows and spikes of white gladioli. The candles were lit by twin cousins of the bride, Misses Barbara and Brenda Roberts. They were becomingly attired in matching baby blue "A" line dresses and headpieces with pink gladioli corsages.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of white peau-de-sole under silk organza with lace jacket featuring lily-point sleeves. Her chapel-length veil was held in place by a white floral headpiece. She carried a white Bible covered with red roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Nadine Bexte, sister of the bride was matron of honor and Mrs. Sylvia Boyd of Lomond was bridesmaid. They wore identical "A" line dresses of pink cotton crochete and headpieces of pink tulle centered with a fabric bow which matched the dresses. They carried crescent bouquets of white carnations.

Attending the groom was Harry Smeltzer of Clive. Ushering duties were performed by Gerald Army and Jack Barnes, brothers of the bride and groom respectively. During the ceremony, Kenneth Aeshbacher of San Diego, Calif. sang "The Wedding Prayer."

For the occasion, the bride's mother chose an aqua sheath dress and jacket with white accessories and corsage of aqua tinted white carnations. The groom's mother wore a blue figured dress and jacket with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held in the Arrowwood Community Hall for 80 guests. The dining room was decorated with pink and white streamers and bells and pink gladioli. Mr. Hubert Bexte, brother-in-law of the bride, acted as master of ceremonies. Paul Irwin of Airdrie, proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded. Mrs. Nadine Bexte rendered two piano selections, O Perfect Love, and Bless This House.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by the bride's mother, and flanked by white tapers.

Out of town guests included relatives and friends from Edmonton, Stettler, Breton, Lacombe, Clive, Banff, Irricana, Lyalta, Airdrie, Midnapore, Aldersyde, Tees and San Diego, Calif.

The bride chose a blue wool suit with white accessories and a corsage of red roses and stephanotis. Both the wedding dress and the suit had been handmade by the bride. After a honeymoon trip to Radium Hot Springs and Banff, the happy couple are making their home in Ponoka.

"Canada's greatest need today is responsible representation in Ottawa, to provide leadership in domestic and international policies. SOCIAL CREDIT policies mean progress - just look at Alberta!"

The achievement of responsible representation will require an entirely new political approach on the part of all Canadians who care about their country and its needs. This approach is to be found in the principles advocated by the Social Credit party, successfully proven in Alberta, and readily adaptable to Ottawa.

Federal Constituency of Macleod

Dr. Lawrence E. Kindt, M.P. is a member of a pioneer family and grew up on a farm at Nanton, Alberta where he attended school and became active in farm group meetings. He organized and was the first President of the Junior Branch of the United Farmers of Alberta. He is a graduate of the Claresholm School of Agriculture; the University of Alberta (B.Sc. in Agriculture); the University of Minnesota (M.A. Agricultural Economics and Business Administration); Graduate Work at Washington, D.C., where he specialized in General Industrial Economics and Natural Resources for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.).

His work with industry and agriculture on the government level as well as on the practical farm level, gives him a knowledge and ability that has been of great service to the residents of the Macleod Riding as well as for individuals with problems. His economic training and experience have been invaluable on various committees of the House of Commons during the past seven years since he has been the Member representing Macleod Constituency in Ottawa. He is a man with the ability to make decisions on economic matters to improve the general welfare of the people. He will be remembered by the people of the Crows Nest Pass for bringing about shipments of coal to Japan, which is a direct result of his effort. He is also the person who should receive the major credit for the establishment of the National Energy Board which has enabled Canada to move with assurance on the export of gas and oil. The work of the board has cleared the way for the building of the Shell Plant south of Pincher Creek and the plant west of Coleman. The old airports at Fort Macleod, Vulcan and Claresholm became surplus to the needs of the federal government and under a plan worked out by Dr. Kindt and others, have been sold to the Town of Fort Macleod, County of Vulcan, Municipal District of Willow Creek and the Town of Claresholm for industrial development and other uses. All of these centres have had several new industries added to their area because of the splendid opportunities for industrial development at these old airports. This work sponsored by Dr. Kindt has greatly helped the communities served by these new industries. He requested P.F.R.A. to study Water Development along the Eastern slope of the Rockies, which led to the Waterton Lakes Dam Development Project and the Chain Lakes Water Development. Dr. Kindt operated his own Economic Consulting Firm for Western Canada with offices at Calgary, prior to becoming a Member of Parliament. He is married and lives on his farm at Nanton, Alberta.

THANK YOU!

WE WISH TO THANK OUR MANY CUSTOMERS
FOR THEIR VALUED PATRONAGE

Due to the terrific response to General Motors products, we are in somewhat the same position as the farmers with the big crop and no more bin room. The difference, of course, is that the farmer piles it outside and hopes for quotas.

Our position is that our lots are full and we have no more room for used cars which cost us money every day besides depreciating each month.

We Made a Decision

like many other dealers across the country, to hold a to make room for the trades on the beautiful 1966 G.M. models.

OUR LOSS IS YOUR GAIN!

Maybe you require a car for your wife, daughter, son or yourself or for just repairs for your own. If you do, you will be able to buy it at a small percentage of the average list price.

REPORT FROM EDMONTON

(by J. WALLY STRANG)

Should students be able to smoke in high school? That single question seems to be drawing more conversation than the election around the house on the hill where the coffee shop gang decides legislation before it gets to the executive council. It's not really like that, but it's not unusual to see a few members of the cabinet huddled over a cup of coffee prior to the big pow-wows. And as I said... one of the big topics of the day is smoking in high schools. I know it's not about to be a matter of record... but if the executive council members were polled on the question... the answer would be a most emphatic NO. Some members feel that it's a matter of discipline... and when you start to give way to student demands, where is the discipline... personally I think smoking in school is the same as an adult drinking on the job... if they can't work without one or the other... why don't they quit school or work until they have control of their habits... and really... why should the government be asked to condone habits that don't benefit anyone?

POLITICAL BISH-BASH

Hear around the grape vine... that many political candidates are having trouble getting enough financial backing to carry their campaigns to the people. Like this writer said once before... if candidates don't have support they should not run. And if they do have support... it's up to the supporters to see to it enough funds are available. And you can say you read it here first... the Social Credit party is no exception. I am sure if anyone would like to send a few dollars in to help the candidates... they will be gratefully received.

Rumours around the house on the hill... indicate Premier Manning although quite active so far... is really going to come out swinging before the election battle becomes much older. Don't be a bit surprised to see education, agriculture and federally imposed provincial taxation attacked by Mr. Manning.

LOOK AHEAD

This year's caucus slated for later this month... at which time our elected officials are going to decide on much of the legislation to go on the legislative agenda next February... already promises to be a taxpayer's dream, as the betting here is that we can expect to go to the polls again next year.
